WHITTIER BIRTHPLACE

Visit the birthplace of Quaker poet and abolitionist John Greenleaf Whittier, located in rural east Haverhill. The homestead is furnished and maintained as it was when the poet was born there in 1807, the fifth generation of Whittiers to live on that farm.

Sit by the hearthside celebrated in "Snowbound," the most famous fireside in American literature. Learn of the growth of Whittier's zeal for the cause of emancipation long before the civil war.

Experience what life was like for an early New England farm family. Hike by our brook. Snowshoe through our meadows. Enjoy the magnificent views from the Freeman Trail. Picnic in our orchard. Greet our newest calf "Lydia". Relish the simple, pastoral pleasures presented in Whittier's poetry!

WHITTIER BIRTHPLACE

TATTERSALL FARM

Welcome to the Tattersall Farm

The Tattersall Farm was owned and operated by the Tattersall Family for almost the entire twentieth century. The surviving family member, Mary Alice Tattersall, died in 1999, and in her will entrusted her family's 150 acre farm to the City of Haverhill, imposing specific conservation and open space preservation restrictions to this gift, so that the Tattersall Farm would be preserved and maintained as close as possible to the state of condition it was at the time of her death.

At the same time she granted managerial rights to the Tattersall Farm Charitable Foundation Trust, which is obligated to preserve the Tattersall Farm, to protect its wildlife and conservation interests, and to inform and educate persons on matters relating to farming and environmental conservation.

The Tattersall Farm offers: 19th century plantings, working hayfields, rolling meadows, and open and wooded paths for passive recreational activities such as walking, jogging, and cross-country skiing. Due to the need to protect the wildlife inhabiting the farm, dogs and other pets are prohibited.

Located at 542 North Broadway, the farm is open daily during daylight hours.

BUTTONWOODS MUSEUM

The Buttonwoods Museum/Haverhill Historical Society is a small, dynamic organization whose mission is to collect, preserve and educate the public about the history and culture of Greater Haverhill.

From a historic site overlooking the Merrimack River, the museum tells the story of life in the Merrimack Valley from Native American settlements through today. Enjoy history that offers something for everyone. Visit the Duncan House, the John Ward House and the Daniel Hunkins Shoe Shop. Tour our period rooms and exhibit gallery. Browse our Gift Shop.

Open seasonal hours. Please visit our website: www.haverhillhistory.org. Or call 978-374-4626 for details.
The Buttonwoods Museum is also the site of an Essex National Heritage Area Visitor Center open year-round for tourist information.
